

Number the events below in the order they should appear on the timeline. Write the number in the box beside each event. Check your answers with page 15 of the book.

Juliane Koepcke, the only survivor of a plane crash in the Peruvian jungle, follows a small stream for nine days before arriving at a logger's camp, where she is rescued.

Three U.S. Navy personnel crash their balloon in Canada's Far North. With little food and equipment, they walk for a week before finding help.

Angela Hernandez is driving along the California coast when she swerves to avoid an animal on the road. Her SUV goes over a cliff, landing 200 feet (61 meters) below the highway. Her vehicle filling with water, she breaks a window to get out. The next seven days are spent yelling for help from the cars passing above. Two hikers finally find her and call for help.

While scrambling through a Utah canyon, Aron Ralston becomes wedged between a dislodged boulder and the canyon wall. After several days pass and no help arrives, Ralston amputates his own arm to free himself. Weak and near death, he is able to hike out of the canyon and find help.

After getting separated from his friends while exploring the Bolivian jungle, Yossi Ghinsberg wanders the Amazon Rainforest for 3 weeks, surviving on fruit and bird eggs. A search party finally finds him walking along a riverbank.

When his plane runs out of fuel, Bob Gauchie is forced to land on a remote lake in northern Canada. He spends 58 days in the brutal cold before being rescued.

